Letters: Candidate Pierog brings a new perspective

Comments (No comments posted) | Add Comments

To the Editor:

Far more than just a rising star in the Democratic Party, Corinne Pierog is a refreshing spirit with a new perspective, one that is truly about "the people" and not political careers. Pierog's campaign for Illinois State Senate is one focused on the issues most important to residents of the 28th District and across the state. Pierog has the capability to address the economy with a fiscally conservative approach without blindly slashing vital programs; instead, Pierog uses our values as the litmus test to make the best decisions for today and the future.

Like so many career politicians, the incumbent has taken the taxpayers' hard-earned cash for granted as if it were some infinite well of wealth. Clearly he has mastered the photo-op, but her Republican opponent has repeatedly failed to meet the needs of the people – the people who do the real living, working and growing of the communities within the 28th District.

Pierog has taken the time to carefully listen to the needs and concerns of the people she will represent, then thoughtfully proposes sound solutions to some of our most pressing issues. Now that's leadership. And the type of leadership so desperately needed to create the type of real change so urgently needed now.

Moreover, Pierog is an independent thinker, who will foster true bi-partisan and non-partisan solutions. Instead of meaningless promises, people in the 28th District and across the state can rely on Pierog's praiseworthy record of integrity, service and real results. But it is her fresh perspective that will ultimately save the day for Illinois.
